Commentary

For the year-to-date, the South African market continues to be buoyed by positive sentiment towards emerging markets and commodities. In our view stocks are now pricing in not only a strong recovery in earnings, but also longer-term profits above our estimates of what are normal and sustainable. Should the future be less bright, the margin of safety in these stocks at current prices is low. We believe SABMiller, the Fund's largest holding, is an exception. Its share price enjoyed a very strong April after the company announced a recovery in fourth quarter volumes. We believe the beer markets in SABMiller's chosen geographies should continue to provide a tailwind to future earnings.
